Grad Appointed U.N. Ambassador

Rafael E. Castillo, a 1957 graduate in civil engineering from the University of Oregon has been appointed ambassador from Guatemala to the United Nations. Ambassador Castillo was in Provo this week taking a brief leave before assuming full-scale duties in New York. He supervises Guatemalan personnel in the United Nations.

He was appointed to the position July 2 following the resignation of the newly elected ambassador, Carlos Arana, the day after President Arana was elected general who became known for putting down various Guatemalan guerrilla uprisings in 1960's.

Two major problems in Guatemala are peace and social justice. We must first have peace in order to achieve social justice and that's what the new ambassador intends as his basic mission," the Ambassador said. He represents a country of approximately 6 million people in an area half the size of relations committee, and directed the PID (Partido Institucional Democrático) party.

After attending the University of San Carlos in Guatemala Mr. Castillo came to BYU and became a member of the LDS Church in 1956.

Professionally he has worked with firms in both Central and North America as a civil engineer and as a consultant.

He is married to the former Janice Johnson, and they are parents of seven children ranging in ages from 19 to 4. The family will continue to reside in Orem.

Today's Forum

The assistant director-general of the British Council and controller of its education division speaks at the forum assembly today. His name is Dr. Arthur Henry King and he is presently teaching a graduate level course in English at BYU.

Dr. King is also a seasoned lecturer, having lectured at Stanford, UCLA, Texas, Michigan and other schools for the Ford Foundation. He is also the author of a number of English texts. For his public service, Dr. King was honored last year by Queen Elizabeth.

"Children are going to go where the action is. Therefore, we must furnish the action," stated LaVern W. Parmley, the General Primary President of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, speaking before BYU's Devotional Assembly Tuesday.

Sister Parmley indicated that "what we do with children today will determine the future of America as well as the Church." She outlined the new program the Primary will be starting.

"The Church is moving at a different tempo than ever before," remarked Sister Parmley. She said the Church is now concerned with a "universal approach to the lessons and activities."

"Because each lesson book is translated into 22 different languages, we have tried to simplify this process," she said. The primary, she noted, now consists of six groups, Moonbeams, Stars, CTRs (Choose the Right), Targeteers, Miss Merrihands, and Blazers and Guides.

A new song book has also been composed for children of Primary age, she said. Forty new songs have been added including "I Want To Go On A Mission" and old favorites like "I Am A Child of God," she added.

The Primary President said that it was a known fact that "children are learning faster and maturing faster today than ever before." Because of this the Primary is trying "to combat every force of evil," she stated.

Quoting from Pres. David O. McKay, Sister Parmley said, "The gospel is life's greatest anchor."

She feels children must have knowledge of the gospel in order to face the "storms of life." "Children need to be loved; not a smothering kind of love, either," she said. She indicated that children need to feel that "someone loves and cares about them."

While visiting a home to help children addicted to drugs, Sister Parmley said that she found two major reasons why children were taking drugs. The first, she said, being "they felt a lack of love, understanding, and communication in their homes. Parents tried to buy their love rather than earn it." The second reason, she feels is because they want to go along with their peers. "Some 2,000 children between the ages of 7 and 14 are habitual drug users," she noted.

"Beyond...Dolls" Still Under Ban

By HOLLY SMITH
Managing Editor

Two motions, one to lift a temporary restraining order and the other to dismiss a preliminary injunction against "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls," were both denied Tuesday.

The denials were made by Fourth District Court Judge Joseph E. Nelson, who granted the original order and injunction last Friday after a complaint was presented by Provo City Corporation.

It was stated in the complaint that the movie which was playing at the Academy Theater was obscene under Utah State law, and it was asked that its exhibition be stopped.

However, Stewart Hanson, a Salt Lake City attorney representing the Academy Theater, its manager, Nolan Hartley, and NGC, the film's distributor, maintained in his arguments that a section of the Utah obscenity law was improperly used and that prior restraint was exercised against the film, that is, the film was illegally prevented from being shown before it was judged by a justice or jury to be obscene or not.

It was pointed out by Hanson that the section of the Utah Code that was used to restrain "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls" refers only to the "sale and distribution" of obscene articles, not the exhibition of obscene articles.

Attorney Hanson felt that Section 76-39-10 of the law should be interpreted literally since other parts of the law specifically refer to exhibition, as well as sale and distribution.

City Attorney Glen J. Ellis denied the original restraining order by saying that Section 76-39-10 of the law should not be taken so literally.

He thought that it was a "fair interpretation" of the law to say that it covered exhibition of the film as well as sale and distribution. Ellis further maintained that the film did sell and distribute ideas.

Concerning the defense's assertion of prior restraint Ellis said, "To label a temporary restraining order prior restraint confuses me... that defeats the purpose of the law."

He went on to say that under the civil prosecution which was followed in the case, the use of an injunction is proper and as a city attorney, it was his duty to file the complaint and use an injunction.

Further proceedings in the case were not definitely known at press time. Confusion existed over whether the trial scheduled for Friday would use a judge or jury to reach a decision.

Latter-day Saint Should Know About Genealogy" to "Danish-Norwegian Maps, Gazetteers, Jurisdiction, Archives, etc." Elder Harold B. Lee, of the First Presidency, will address the delegates tomorrow evening.

Opportunities In Teacher Surplus?

RICHARD RICHARDS

Meet Utah's Candidates

By BOB WILLIAMS
Universe Staff Writer

(Editor's Note: This article is the third in a series to acquaint readers of The Daily Universe with the candidates from Utah for the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives from Utah's first Congressional District. Views expressed will be presented from candidates of all three political parties.)

Richard Richards was nominated unopposed by the Utah Republican party for Congressman from Utah's first Congressional District on July 11. He announced his candidacy March 2. At that time he said:

"I am bothered by the magnitude and volatility of the problems we face in the nation today. We had a bad decade in the 60's and if we fail to find solutions to our problems right away there is cause for great concern about the future."

"In 1968 the voters elected Richard Nixon President with the hope and prayer that he would 'bring the Country together.' But many Congressmen have played politics with the President, and, as a result, many of his programs are being thwarted."

As a Congressman from Utah, I would be numbered among those who support President Nixon in his positive, and even courageous, programs to curb inflation, fight crime, violence, pornography, and the illegal sale of dangerous drugs; and in his programs to clean up our environment."

His statements as this indicate Richards' close ties with the President. Indeed, some Democrats have charged he is a "true stamp" to Nixon.

To such assertions Richards replies, "I can think of a lot of policies of the Administration where we don't agree. Vietnam and Cambodia just don't happen to be them. I disagree with the President's policy on welfare reform. I think the theory is good but I don't think the practice will work."

"I took issue with the President's proposal on increases in the Postal Department for first class mail. The junk mailers are the ones who are clogging up the postal system, not the first class mail. First class mail pays its way and junk mail does not."

Politics is a dirty game, Richards is frank about issues and offers these comments: On a reassertion of Congressional authority: "I think Congress needs to reassert itself a little more than they have. But frankly, they are so much involved in conflicts of interest, petty politics, and self-serving attitudes that they have lost the respect of the public. Consequently they have lost some of their political muscle. Until they are willing to shape up they aren't going to gain it back."

About pollution: "It's the responsibility of business, industry, the private citizen, the state, local, and federal governments to clean up the environment. The biggest polluters besides automobiles, are the cities and towns. They are polluting the air, the lakes and streams. They are taking short cuts to solve problems of disposal."

"Industry feels we're being too tough on them. We need to put on industry. They don't pay the bill, they pass it on to the consumer anyway. We've got to get tough on everybody that pollutes. We've got to be fair but we've got to be tough and we've got to be firm."

Inflation
When asked what Congress can do to fight inflation, Richards simply replies, "Stop spending so much money."

On crime: "I take a pretty hard line on crime both off the campus and on the campus. There is no difference between crime on the campus and crime elsewhere."

"Played Politics"

"The Democratic-controlled Congress has played politics with the President's crime control package. The crime rate has been rising every month in the last six or seven years. President Nixon has had 18 bills passed by the House Judiciary Committee for 10 months and they haven't done anything on them. They are complaining about the rise in crime and yet they are deliberately holding up legislation that is designed to combat crime."

"I distinguish however, campus crime from campus disorder. Everybody has a right to disagree. That does not include the right to commit violence or destroy property. I call those who are campus criminals I have seen many times. We have seven million decent, honest kids on campus and they don't all agree with the Establishment. That does make them wrong or us right. For those who want to participate, we need to open up the avenues of participation. We need an opportunity to listen to them."

Concerning Vietnam: "It is stupid to say we are going to get out of Vietnam by a certain date. All that does is jeopardize the lives of more people. We ought to get out of there as fast as we can get out. This what President Nixon is trying to do. It denies your ability to negotiate with you tell the enemy when you're going to be out."

"I think it is hypocritical of Democrats to criticize. The haven't got an honest legitimate answer to Vietnam or they would have it. Right now we are the ones who created the mess, now they are complaining because we haven't cleaned it up completely in less than two years."

"Nixon is doing as well as can be done. He has taken out 115,000 troops already and if we get out another 150,000 by May we will have reduced the force by one-half. That's pretty good."

Richards has a wide background in civic, church and political affairs. He graduated from the University of Utah Law School in 1961. He was the youngest state party chairman in the country, serving in Utah from 1965 to 1968. He is married to Anne. Both Richards and Anne have children.

much money." He elaborates on that by saying, "When President Nixon took over we had a bad inflation problem and everybody knew it. We had deficits continually during the Democratic administrations. The cost of living had continually risen. Inflation had been running wild."

"Nixon said he was going to do something about it. He said what he would do would hurt some people because first he was going to cut down government spending and that would increase the unemployment rate; it would slow down business expansion and it would raise the cost of credit. He said it would be tough. It was tough and it is tough. But things are turning for the better."

Yet, at the very time things are improving, the Democrats are criticizing and complaining about the high interest rates and inflation, while the Democratic-controlled Congress is appropriating more money than the President wants. Not only that but they are overriding his votes and trying to force a spending bill on the Congress is acting irresponsibly. It isn't right to ask consumers to cut down spending when the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

STUDENTS IN POLITICS

Editor:

I wish to make a few comments concerning the editorial on "Students' System Meet in Politics" in the July 23rd Universe. You are to be commended for pressuring the students who have participated in the Utah political conventions. However, in admonishing the BYU student body, I am afraid you overlooked two important factors.

First, the small percentage of BYU students are resident in the Provo area. At the University of Utah, many have residences in the Salt Lake City vicinity. To be a candidate for county or state conventions, one must be nominated by his party's local executive mass meeting. These mass meetings are held in that district, and usually attendance at that meeting.

Second, while the BYU student body and administration were in confusion over the selection of a student body president, the U of U was engaged in "Participation '70," the prime motivation behind student participation at the mass meetings was largely the brainchild of U Williams, the U of U Political Science Department chairman. However, this was a success because of the strong support of the student body. As a student body president, and the university's administration; the effort of its mass meetings. Summary: I am afraid you overlooked two important factors: student; as well as the interest of the student body.

There is a crucial election coming up in November, and I don't think there is a student body as a whole, concerned then students elsewhere. However, if the student body is to be a force, it needs to be stronger support and effort than shown in the past by BYU students, faculty and administrators.

Ch To Chagrin Of Judges

BYU Choir Wins In Europe

Choirs are winners even when they're not competing.

The BYU's Acappella Choir, comprised of the 67-member chorus, returned to Linz, Austria for the scheduled concert. By coincidence a centennial music festival was being staged in the city. With the flurry of performances of numerous choirs, apparently a judge got sidetracked into the Acappella choir concert.

After fresh back from the tour, Donald Woodward, choir director, received word this week that the Acappella Choir was named "Best Overseas Choir" during the Linz festival—a festival that never entered.

He received fine reviews from where. "The Acappella Choir was named 'Best Overseas Choir' during the Linz festival—a festival that never entered. Woodward, after 42 days and 31 concerts across eight European countries.

The Choir sang at Plymouth, England during the 300th Anniversary celebration of the sailing of the Mayflower.

They were the first non-Catholic musical group to perform in the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris.

Although they seldom sang to paying audiences, they netted over $4,000 for UNESCO in one performance.

"One of the unique things about the choir is that it can perform in churches and market places and appeal to whoever happens to be around," lauded Dr. Woodward, who has conducted the group since 1964.

While in Llangollen, Wales, Kathryn Austin, a senior from Provo, won the mezzo-soprano soloist contest in the International Eisteddfod music competition. She placed second two years ago in the same festival when the choir made its first European tour.

In the same contest, Kay Andrews, a sophomore from San Diego, Calif., won in the soprano division.

Two years ago the Acappella Choir placed first in the mixed chorus category of the Eisteddfod festival.

Although they didn't place this year, they were enthusiastically applauded, especially by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

"I was very happy with our performance," added Dr. Woodward.

Success in the missionary effort has also been reported. "We were able to sing where people normally go to worship and reach many who became interested in the Church," said the choir director.

"Many people commented that we sang from our hearts, that we radiated a great deal of warmth and that we were beautiful to look at," recalled Kerri Rollins, a graduate student from Provo.

"I can't remember a place where we weren't warmly received," added Kim Bateman, a junior from Provo.

"The students enjoyed giving Europe something instead of taking it away," said Dr. Woodward.

NFL Dispute Ended Before Games Begin

National Football League players ended their strike and headed for training camps Monday after agreeing with the owners on a new package of pension and benefits totaling $19.1 million.

In addition to the pension benefits, they had agreed previously on a new plan to pay for pre-season games and per diem that would cost the league an average of $2.6 million per year. The new sliding scale calls for a 10 percent increase, tied into the cost of living, over four years, starting with $100,000 for a two-year player up to $280 for five years and over of $300 per year.

The pension increase is substantial. In 1969, the owners contributed $8 million a year. Now they will be guaranteeing $4,535,000 plus the $500,000 for extra benefits. The four-year total pension-benefit package amounts to $19.1 million. Under the old scale, it would cost $14 million for the four year period. Thus, the increase for pension benefits is $7.9 million.

The new pre-season schedule and the regular season, with its million-dollar television contracts and heavy advance ticket sales, is threatened by the strike. Only a few veterans had broken the picket line to report to the training camps until the contract was settled, ending their respective teams.

Wednesday all 26 clubs are expected to have their full complement of players in camp.

BU Trips Incas, 5-4 For Soccer Victory

Some 300 hardy soccer fans braved the 90 degree heat Saturday and were rewarded with an exciting last-minute victory over the Cougars in the Champion Incas from Salt Lake. The final score was 5-4 in favor of the Cougars.

The game started off with two quick goals in the first ten minutes of play by Craig Jacobs and Roberto Balsamo. The Cougars then suffered a drought for the remaining of the first half as the Incas' Mountain Cat scoring power off. The Incas, however, settled down and played their famous ball control type soccer and by the end of the first half the score was knotted at 2-2.

The second half began differently for the Y soccermen. The powerful Cougars looked like they were going to turn them off the playing field as they scored two lightning goals before the ten minute mark to give them a comfortable 4-2 edge. However, the Cougars made the best of the situation and scored a goal in the last-minute victory over the Incas.

Rick Egan narrowed the score to 4-3 with a booming shot from 25 yards and then about eight minutes later Gary Miller tied the score with a header. The Cougars needed the momentum to stay on top of the game the rest of the way.

The BYU team was not content with the idea of a tie ball game and went all out offense. With two minutes remaining, their efforts were rewarded when Dennis Baird scored the winning goal after taking a pass from Egan over their perennial foes from Salt Lake, the Cougars will finally availing their big game against the F. C. Sandt team from Provo. The game will take place August 10 at 7:30 p.m. on Haws Field.

The coming week there will be two games played at Haws Field. The Cougars from Hollanda in Salt Lake will contest the Y soccermen on Wednesday night August 11 at 8:00. BYU will then meet the tough team from the Greek Orthodox Church of Salt Lake on Saturday August 16 at 7:30 p.m. No admission will be charged for these games.

In honor of the soccer games, the Cougars are competing this summer in the "Utah Governor Calvin M. Benson has declared Wednesday August 11 as "Utah Soccer Week" in a special recognition.

Casper to Host Church Tourney And Y Banquet

The annual All-Church golf tournament will get under way today and will conclude tomorrow under the tutelage of professional golfer Billy Casper.

Films of the 1970 Masters golf classic, won by Casper, will be on hand for Wednesday's kickoff banquet at Brigham Young University. Casper will narrate the films.

Tickets for the banquet may be purchased at the Mutual Improvement Association office (79 South State) or through Floyd Millet at 106 SEH. The banquet begins at 7:00 p.m.

Casper will be accompanied by another prominent LDS golfer, Don Collett.

Activity cards will not be required for the first football game with North Texas State because it falls between summer school and the beginning of the fall semester.

Tickets will be distributed the day of the game at the stadium ticket windows.

Slipp Quits

Former Brigham Young University standout Jeff Slipp has left the Denver Broncos football training camp.

Coach Lou Saban said Slipp left the camp voluntarily.

When you buy the 1st tire at our low everyday exchange price (Plus F.E.T.)

Read how this great tire gives you better performance and years of extra mileage

• TWO STABILIZER BELT PLIES reduce tread scrubbing — mean a mile of tire wear — to give you thousands of extra miles.

• LARGER TREAD FOOTPRINT gives extra traction where you need it most — on wet, slippery pavement.

• LOW, WIDE 78 PROFILE gives you quicker steering response and the new modern look of today's sleek low cars.

• GREATER PUNCTURE AND IMPACT RESISTANCE — double belted construction gives almost twice the impact resistance of ordinary tires.

All comparisons relate to previous Firestone Deluxe Champion Tires.

Rock Dancers Whirl Across Europe

The International Folk Dance Society will continue to dance their way across Europe receiving royal treatment—courtesy of real Europeans.

Because of the way through Europe three month spin and a spin through eleven nations, the folk dancers have been personally invited by the President of Portugal and the King and Queen of Denmark.

The 33 students (named American Folk Dancers while on their fifth European tour) are scheduled to wrap up their three-day appearance in Zurich, Switzerland today. They leave tomorrow for Paris.

According to Mary Bee Jensen, director of the Dancers, strong people-to-people ties are being made throughout the continent.

In Cry, France, the townspeople turned out in droves, decked trees, buildings and streets with flowers and decorations, gave banquets and tours and opened their homes to the dancers.

This summer's tour is covering Spain, Portugal, Italy, Switzerland, France, Denmark, Finland, Sweden, England, Scotland and The Netherlands.

The Folk Dancers are presenting the history of America through dance from the early American Indian.
